UK BASKETBALL COACH JOE HALL TO SPEAK AT HOMECOMING BANQUET

Homecoming This Weekend; Golf Tourney, Reception Slated

Joe B. Hall of Lexington, assistant head basketball coach at the University of Kentucky, will be guest speaker at this year's Morgan County School Homecoming Banquet.

Coach Hall, who took over as UK Wildcat coach during Coach Adolph Rupp's illness last season is a popular figure in Kentucky sports circles and is an entertaining speaker. Coach Hall, who is slated to take Coach Adolph Rupp's place as head coach when "the Baron" retires, was a member of UK's famous "Fabulous Five" team of the late 1940's and is in charge of recruiting for the Wildcats.

Joe Lykins of Malone, president of the former students association, said a large number of former Morgan County students are expected to attend the homecoming which, in addition to traditional activities, this year will include a Homecoming Golf Tournament at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

The Homecoming Banquet will be held at 6:30 p.m. in the West Liberty Elementary School auditorium on Wells Hill. Price per plate is $3.50 and the banquet will be followed by a Homecoming Dance.

As customary, Homecoming activities will begin at 9 a.m. with a coffee sponsored by the G. C. Banks Circle of the West Liberty Christian Church. The coffee will be held in the Fellowship Hall of the church and will last until 11 a.m. All homecomers and local alumni and their guests are invited to start the day there by enjoying a breakfast of ham and biscuits, sweet rolls, etc. and plenty of coffee.

As in the past, the traditional reception for all former students and their families and friends will be held at the home of Mrs. C. K. Stacy on Prestonsburg Street, New officers of the Homecoming Association will be elected at the reception.

A new feature of the homecoming, initiated last year, will be the second annual Morgan County Homecoming Golf Tournament to be played at the Pleasant Valley Country Club Saturday, July 31, and Sunday, Aug. 1. (See details elsewhere in this edition.)

Officers in charge of this year's homecoming are Joe Lykins, of Malone, president; Billy Black of Frankfort, vice president; and Mrs. Bernice Allen of West Liberty, secretary-treasurer. Ladies of the White Oak Christian Church will prepare and serve the banquet again this year.

A technician of the Blood Mobile Unit of the Central Kentucky Blood Supply Center of Lexington prepares to accept blood donations from West Liberty businessmen Garry Elam, foreground, and banker James R. Perry at Morgan County's first blood donor clinic last Thursday. A total of 170 donors showed up to donate a pint of blood each, and 138 pints of blood were collected by the blood mobile staff — a record collection for this area. The highest single collection from similar clinics in the area was 101 pints of blood, according to a member of the blood mobile staff.

BLOOD BANK DONORS SET RECORD; GIVE 138 PINTS AT FIRST CLINIC

Morgan County Blood Bank organizers were delighted by donor response at Morgan's first blood donor clinic held last Thursday at the West Liberty Christian Church.

A total of 170 donors showed up and the staff of the Blood Mobile Unit of the Central Kentucky Blood Supply Center from Lexington collected 138 pints of blood—a record for the area.

Dr. Miller, whose 10-member blood mobile staff set up headquarters in the church basement at 1 p.m. Thursday, said organization of the local clinic by blood bank officials was the most efficient he'd encountered in the Central Kentucky Blood Center area.

Dr. Miller said he was particularly impressed with the friendliness of the donors and their eagerness to donate blood. Each donor was required to give a pint of blood to qualify for membership in the local blood bank program. Membership in the local blood bank also qualifies members and their families to blood from any blood bank in the continental United States.

County Homemakers Clubs provided refreshments for donors and workers at the donor station. Serving the refreshments were Mrs. Olive Burton, Mrs. Gertrude Nickell, and Mrs. Kathleen Blair.

Other volunteers who helped with clinical processing of donors were Sheri Johnson, Mrs. Barbara Perry, Mary Graham Burton, and Rev. Steve Bliffen, chairman of the local organization.

Naomi Finch, secretary-treasurer of the local organization, said 27 of the 170 who showed up to donate blood were unable to donate because of medical reasons, but said that most of these will probably be able to donate at the next blood clinic.

All blood bank members who signed through last Thursday are entitled to charter member status which permits them to draw blood immediately in case of emergency.

Persons who have not yet joined the organization are urged to do so at their earliest convenience. Though they will be required to wait 30 days after signing to be eligible for free blood under the program, their membership will entitle them to coverage for four additional members of their family or others whom they designate.

Membership cards are still available at Elam Rexall Drug Store and Commercial Bank. The only requirement for joining is that each member must donate one pint of blood once every four years.

FISCAL COURT APPROVES PLAN TO LEASE NEW AREA HOSPITAL TO ARH

Court Adds Two Sectors To Rural Highway System

The Morgan County Fiscal Court at a special meeting Friday voted to operate the new Morgan County Area Hospital now being built at Wells Hill opposite the business section of town.

Fontaine Banks represented the Appalachian Regional Hospitals System at the meeting, and after a discussion of the proposal, the court voted unanimously to accept ARH's offer and to operate the new hospital and directed that the Morgan County Court execute a lease to ARH.

Hospital Completion Date: Nov. 1972

ARH will assume control of the new 50-bed hospital when it is completed. Frederick and May Construction Co. of West Liberty expects to have the facility ready for occupancy by November of 1972, perhaps sooner.

The court also heard representatives from the Jackson District Highway Office, who reported that Morgan County would receive an additional $1,073 of state funds for the county rural road funds, making a total of $98,137 for the 1971-72 fiscal year.

The court by unanimous vote added two roads to the rural highway system — nine-tenths of a mile of the Marion Collins Bridge Road and 1 1/2 miles of the Callahan Road.

Representatives of the Gateway Area Development District reported that Morgan County could participate in the new 5-county Police Communication System that includes Sheriffs, City Police, and State Police. The county's and city's share of cost is $1,000, and the court voted to accept the proposal.

Will Employ 60-65

Morgan Countians

Appalachian Regional Hospitals, Inc., headquartered at Lexington, operates 10 hospitals in Kentucky, West Virginia, and Virginia.

Banks, assistant to the president of ARH, told the fiscal court that the hospital chain will employ "sixty to sixty-five Morgan Countians to help staff the new West Liberty facility" at an anticipated annual payroll of $250,000.

It is anticipated that some of these employees will be trained by ARH. Also, the Kentucky Department of Economic Security office at Morehead anticipates a Licensed Practical Nurse course to be taught at Maysville in the fall, providing the federal Manpower Development and Training Act, which provides funds for such training, is re-instated by Congress. MDTA was included in a recent President veto of other redevelopment and public works programs.

If funding become available, five to eight Morgan Countians will be eligible for the training, according to Paul Thompson of the Morehead Economic Security office.

ARH will employ a hospital administrator, who will be advised by a local hospital advisory board.

Mrs. Mann's son, John Wesley Mann, was charged with the murder, and his case has not yet been set for trial. The son took the witness stand in his mother's defense, and admitted he fired the fatal shot that killed his father, but declared the shooting was an accident. He is at liberty under bond.

Disaster Committee Releases Figures After Tours Of Area

The USDA County Disaster Committee estimates that flood and storm damage to Morgan County crops and cropland resulting from the recent storm of July 17-18 amounted to $1 million.

The committee, headed by Ralph Hamilton, chairman of the County ASC Committee, released its estimates Tuesday following tours of the stricken areas by committee members that day and last week.

According to the committee's evaluation, 35 percent of the county's cropland was damaged by the storm. By comparison, the July storm of 1961 damaged or wiped out nearly half of the county's crops.

Greatest loss from this year's storm was to growing crops, which was estimated at $879,000. The loss to growing crops in 1961 was $1,650,000.

Land damage from this month's flood is estimated at $130,000. Loss of land structure in the 1961 flood was $2,250,000.

Tuesday's Disaster Committee report listed estimated damages as follows:

Tobacco — 262 acres damaged or destroyed, $471,000.

Corn — 1,000 acres damaged or destroyed, $100,000.

Hay — 1,000 acres damaged or destroyed, $30,000.

Pasture — 700 acres damaged or destroyed, $7,000.

Damage to streambanks — 30 miles, $30,000.

Debris on farmland — 250 acres, $100,000.

Hardest hit was the area along North Fork Creek where crop loss was extensive and land damage severe.

Also sustaining heavy crop damage were the areas along lower Gandy Creek, Vance Fork and White Oak, Straight Creek, up Mordica, Long Branch, Lacy Creek and Jones Creek, and at Dehart, Blaze, and Pleasant Run, and from Wrigley north to the Elliott County line.

The Disaster Committee met Tuesday to prepare its damage estimate. Members present were Ralph Hamilton, chairman; Paul Beck, Extension Service; Woodrow White, Farmers Home Administration; H. A. Wallace, Soil Conservation Service; Ben Cox and Arthur Gibson, County ASCS Committee members; Glenn Lacy, ASCS Clerk; Eugene Manning, Department of Economic Security, and Daryl B. Whitte, ASCS Office Manager. Also present were Courtney Noble, District ASCS Director, and Jim Stringer, area Red Cross official. County Civil Defense Director Russell Brown, who called in Red Cross workers after touring the county shortly after the storm is also a member of the disaster committee.

Each agency represented has programs available under which flood victims may apply and receive aid. The County ASCS Committee has requested the Department of Agriculture to change the cost-share ration for land conservation practices from 50-50 to 80-20 percent to help farmers clear their land of debris, fill in wash gullies and stream banks, and rescue the land.

No Estimate On Road Damage

County Judge Gene Allen said reports of road damages resulting from the storm are still being received and said that no estimate of the amount of damage to county and rural roads had yet been made.

However, between 40 and 50 small bridges were washed out or damaged, and several miles of county roads were washed away or "gullied."

Damage to homes and businesses in the North Fork area was particularly heavy, but so far no accurate dollar estimate has been made.

The Morgan Fiscal Court joined officials from Elliott, Magoffin, and other surrounding counties in asking Gov. Louie B. Nunn to declare the counties a disaster area. However, Judge Allen said that the matter is still being considered in Frankfort.

FLOOD THREAT CEASED INCHES BELOW SANDBAGS

Licking River, after threatening to overrun and possibly break Cave Run Dam last week, driving some 1,400 persons from their homes around Farmers and Salt Lick, erected Thursday of last week just inches below tops of sandbags.
Col. Rhett of the U. S. Corps of Engineers said Thursday, the immediate threat is past, and the people can return to their homes below the dam.
They had been evacuated by orders of the State Police after a second raise in Licking on Tuesday made the situation critical. Water came within inches of the top while engineers worked furiously to build up the structure, using sandbags to add an additional three feet to the height of the earthen dam.
Meanwhile, crews commenced building a spillway at the top of the affected portion of the 2700-foot-long dam to control any future threats.
Officials estimated that 90% of the residents below the dam moved from their homes, finding shelter with relatives or in Morehead and Owingsville.

GOP CANDIDATE PROMISES AID TO STATE'S TOBACCO INDUSTRY

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., July 24 — Tom Emberton, Republican nominee for the gubernatorial nomination, today pledged he would do everything in his power to help strengthen the tobacco industry if he is elected at the November general election.

In remarks prepared for delivery to the Mammoth Cave Production Credit Association, Emberton commented on a proposed amendment to the Agricultural Appropriations Bill to kill the tobacco support program. The amendment was introduced last week by Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, and supported by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

"They don't grow much tobacco in Utah and they don't grow much tobacco in Massachusetts either," Emberton said. "But we do grow tobacco in Kentucky and every farmer in this room knows more about it than both of those fellows put together."

Financial Trouble
Emberton said the amendment could mean serious financial trouble for thousands of Kentucky families.

"Tobacco support is one of the most prudent investments our government makes," he said. "It helps provide employment for tens of thousands of Americans who pay taxes. It provides us with a desirable commodity for export and helps fight the drain on the American dollar."

Calling the independent farmer the "backbone of our economy" Emberton said he would, if elected, "encourage closer cooperation between public and private credit agencies and find new ways to increase the volume of insured loans to farmers."

He also promised to fund the State Farm Development Authority established by the 1970 General Assembly.

"I will also expand vocational, agricultural and technical training programs so more Kentuckians will be qualified for jobs in business, industry and farming," he said.

BUSINESS HERE AND HEREABOUTS

COST OF LIVING RISES AGAIN — Cost of living rose six-tenths of percent during June, the sharpest increase in 15 months, the Labor Department reported Saturday. Federal officials, citing monthly raises of 0.1 to 0.3% a month earlier this year, had claimed that inflation was abating. Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, told a joint Senate-House Economic Committee that efforts to curb prices and wages "need to be carried further — much further, possibly controls on them."

KENTUCKY EDITORS STRIVE FOR FAIRNESS IN POLITICS, IS VIEW

BY W. B. ARDERY

It is a rare convention at which one gets anything worth wrapping up and taking home. The Summer meet of the Kentucky Press Association at Kentucky Dam Village State Park, however, was one of these exceptions.

Plaques and certificates awarded winning editors for excellence in various categories of competition were one take-home item but another, even more important to readers, was clear evidence of the following: By and large, Kentucky editors are striving earnestly for fairness in their reporting of political campaigns. Under pressure from all sides, the editors consistently emphasized, at their meeting, that they seek fairness in such reporting — fairness not only to their readers but to opposing candidates for state offices.

With an almost-daily flood of "publicity" inundating newspaper offices from the various campaign headquarters, with the demands of partisan readers and advertisers and with his personal preferences to discount, the editor travels a thorny path in his pursuit of absolute fairness in his news columns. In its editorial policy, of course, a newspaper is free to take any position it wishes, exercising leadership in the direction the editor thinks best for his community.

Although the editorial page generally is accepted as being the most influential section of a newspaper, most Kentucky readers can feel secure in the knowledge that they are getting fair and balanced reports of campaign activities in their community paper news columns. So they thus are as free to make up their own minds as the editor was to make up his.

SENATE PASSES LEGISLATION TO CONTINUE ARC

(Special) — Senator John Sherman Cooper R-Ky., announced July 21 that the Senate by a vote of 88-2 approved a bill to extend the Appalachian Regional Commission for four years, the Appalachian Highway program for five years, and the Public Works Economic Development Act for two years.

Each of these programs were included in a recent Presidential veto, which unless the legislation is enacted into law, will kill them.

Total amount authorized for Appalachia in the new bill is $1.541 billion. The highway funds authorized by the bill would allow for the completion of the proposed Appalachian Highway system.

Senator Cooper is ranking Republican member of the Senate Public Works Committee which has jurisdiction over the legislation.

NUNN TO JOIN LAW FIRM IN LEXINGTON

FRANKFORT, KY. — Gov. Louie B. Nunn announced Monday he plans to join the well-known law firm of Stoll, Keenon & Park as a senior partner when his term as governor expires in December. Gov. Nunn last week purchased a three-story stone home in Lexington and plans to live there.

There have been reports that Gov. Nunn would join the Nixon cabinet as Attorney General when John Mitchell resigns to run Nixon's campaign for reelection.

But this week the Governor would say only that he was not closing the door on any other opportunities and that any announcements of an other plans probably would come from a higher level.

As for the 1972 U. S. Senate race for the seat now held by John Sherman Cooper, the AP noted that Governor Nunn had said previously he would not support any announcement on that prior to the November gubernatorial election and that he has said he would probably oppose any such announcement.

Trout Are Stocked In Area Streams July 20

Morgan County Conservation officer David Adams announced this week that trout were stocked July 20 in the tailwaters of the Grayson Reservoir in Carter County, tailwaters of Buckhorn Dam in Perry County, tailwaters of Fish Trap Dam in Pike County, and in Cane Creek in Elliott County.

The stockings are part of a total of 37,486 trout which the Department of Fish and Wildlife plans to release in Kentucky water through Aug. 12.

Adams said the tailwaters of the dams mentioned above will be restocked again on Aug. 12. He reminded anglers to be sure and purchase their trout stamp before trying their luck. For information on trout stocking on other Kentucky streams, contact Mr. Adams.

BILL TO RESUME GI HOME LOANS PASSED BY SENATE COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON — Senator Marlow Cook announced July 19 that the Senate Committee on Veterans' Affairs has favorably acted on legislation which if passed by Congress would result in the resumption of the direct loan program for GI home buyers in 113 Kentucky counties, including Elliott, Morgan, Wolfe, Menifee, Magoffin, and others nearby. The bill would give the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs greater discretion in selling direct loan "paper" to commercial investors thus raising additional capital for a revolving fund from which direct home loans are made, Senator Cook stated.

WENDELL FORD OUTLINES PLANS TO AID FARM CONDITIONS IN STATE

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., July 24 — Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford today announced a pilot project to improve farm conditions in Kentucky and make rural life more attractive to young people.

The Democratic gubernatorial nominee said he would draw upon the resources of government, business and industry to restore agriculture "to its rightful place as a profitable institution."

One of the first steps, Ford told the Mammoth Cave Production Credit Association, would be to re-create the Governor's Commission on Agriculture.

"We will provide seed money from existing sources to enable the farmer to invest in his own family farm and his equipment," Ford continued.

He pointed out that the Kentucky Farm Development Authority was set up by the 1970 Legislature to guarantee loans to farmers wishing to purchase homes.

Ford said, however, that Gov. Louie B. Nunn's administration has failed to use the authority as a tool to help agriculture recover its balance.

"We will call on the Department of Agriculture and the University of Kentucky Extension Service to find better ways of production," the lieutenant governor said.

Ford said his project, "New Farms," also includes an Environmental Quality Agency which will have the ability to get at the facts regarding a balanced environment.

One of the tools at the agency's disposal, he added, would be the Kentucky Tobacco Research Board, established to find and solve any problems that may exist in this field.

Ford said the board already has authorized purchase of equipment to isolate and measure the chemical residues of tobacco.

The lieutenant governor said that "only when we again make the family farm economically attractive will we achieve a balance between producers and consumers."

STATE REDISTRICTING IS RULED UNCONSTITUTIONAL BY U. S. JUDGE

But Nov. Election Can Proceed, Judge Swinford Rules

LEXINGTON, Ky. — U. S. District Judge Mac Swinford earlier this week ruled that Kentucky's new redistricting law, enacted last winter, is unconstitutional.

He ruled, however, that the impending November election, involving candidates nominated from the re-arranged districts, can proceed without change, and that those elected can hold office under the new law.

The present redistricting law resulted from last winter's special session of the legislature, which was called in an effort to comply with the U. S. Supreme Court's "one-man-one-vote" ruling, aimed at giving all voters an approximately equal voice on legislative matters.

Judge Swinford said Kentucky's legislators chose the present act after passing over several alternative proposals that would have resulted in Senate and House districts more closely approaching the Supreme Court's "one-man-one-vote" principle.

Swinford noted that "many" of the House and Senate districts created under the act are acceptable on constitutional grounds, but said it is not within his court's "province" to order the legislature to make certain specific changes.

He noted, also, that deviations in the Kentucky districts are not as pronounced as some attempted in other states.

He acknowledged an awareness of "the problems with which the legislators had to grapple" and an appreciation for the thesis that "continued fragmentation of county lines in pursuit of equal districts will eventually result in wholly ineffective representation."

But he added, in ruling on the constitutionality of the present law:

"It is only important that there are substantial population inequalities, which the legislators have admitted could have been avoided, but which they chose to tolerate for reasons which this court feels are not, under the circumstances, acceptable."

Swinford's 16-page commentary on his ruling said it is hoped that the 1972 General Assembly will develop a more acceptable redistricting plan.

Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford said Tuesday he will call a special meeting of the Legislative Research Commission to decide whether to appeal Judge Swinford's decision declaring the state's redistricting law unconstitutional. And House Speaker Julian Carroll, a member of the LRC, said he will vote to appeal the ruling.

"Even if the decision is upheld," Carroll said, "the General Assembly can benefit from all the guidelines it can get from the courts."

ODDS AND ENDS

By Earl Kinner, Jr.

That thing lying in front of our telephone is a 16-inch cucumber which came from the garden of Mrs. Nannie Wells of West Liberty. The unusual vegetable is a new variety and one of several in Mrs. Wells' cucumber patch. Mrs. Wells, who broke her hip in a fall a few weeks ago, is improving steadily at the home of her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Victor McKenzie, at West Liberty.

Pat Craft of Vero Beach, Fla., former Morgan County and son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Craft, also of Vero Beach, is employed at Disney's World, the new Disney Land-type attraction near Orlando, Fla. Pat, who attended school at West Liberty before moving to Florida with his parents a few years ago, is a fiber-glass specialist and is helping mold the fiber-glass Disney cartoon characters which will be a feature of the mammoth fun attraction. Pat learned his craft while employed at an airplane factory near his home and later employed his skills in the manufacture of fiber-glass air boats used by sportsmen in the Everglades.

This comes to us by way of Homer Haney, who got it straight from Mort Neal over in Neal Valley. Homer went to visit Mort, who has been in ill health recently, and found him on his porch watching something on a nearby tree. Mort told Homer he'd always heard that a locust (jarfly) grew wings in 30 minutes after emerging from its shell. It was a jarfly he was watching and he told Homer that in the 30 minutes since it emerged, it appeared to him that the insect's wings had grown an inch and a quarter.

HE RUNS 'THE BEST LITTLE PX OUTSIDE THE WORLD'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following feature was originally published in The Communicator, the U. S. Army Vietnam newspaper and was picked up by The Courier from The Morehead News. Spec. 5 McLain is a son of Mrs. Mildred McLain of Morehead, formerly of West Liberty. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Bernard E. Whitt of West Liberty and he is a graduate of Morgan County High School.)

The sign above the door reads "The Best Little PX Outside The World." You'll get no argument as to the truth of that claim from the thirsty men of the Signal Support Agency, Saigon.

Located at Camp Gaylor, this miniature PX operates solely for the benefit of those soldiers who wish to supplement their daily diets with such gourmet delights as canned Vienna sausage, chocolate covered peanuts, potato chips and cookies. Also on hand are large supplies of items for those who, in the midst of a shower, discover they have no soap or reach for that last razor blade only to find the dispenser empty.

The manager of this Vietnam version of the quick service store is Specialist 5 David McLain, a 25-year-old former radio announcer from West Liberty, and Morehead, Ky. McLain's job, which he describes as "a kick," ranges from handling the $40 to $50 worth of business each day to conversing on any variety of subjects with those customers who drop by to pass the time and take care of their sweet tooth. This a part of the job for which McLain is especially well suited.

For three and one half months he served as an instructor at the Camp Gaylor photo lab. The one thing which most soldiers in Vietnam have in common is a newly purchased camera. Often times, Dave can be found lending photographic assistance while making change for a $20 bill. He also is involved in an American-Vietnamese Cultural Exchange Program sponsored by the Vietnamese-American Association.

Under this program, McLain participates in the Reader's Theater and sings in the Saigon Choral Society. So those who complain of having nothing to do often receive more than one suggestion.

Dave plans to attend college after he leaves the Army this August. He wants to teach high school English but for the present confines his instructions to "That will be $3.85 for eight cokes, one carton of cigarettes, one can of cheese spread, one container of lighter flints and a can of potato chips."
